

Hors d'Oeuvres

- WELL FOLKS, Halloween is over and things are getting back to their normal positions again for another year. We didn't count the town to see what had happened overnight, but we rather than the usual pranks were performed, with the usual placement of gates and movable articles of various sorts.
- ONE FEATURE of the night which is worthy of mention is the fact that the Ben Cadette spent their time putting things right rather than upsetting them.
- TO THE BOYS and their leaders go our congratulations. This was a smart bit of organization, and a keen bit of psychology.
- WE HAVEN'T ASKED the boys yet, but we imagine they had just as much fun working in a constructive fashion as did others following the destructive trend. And there's no doubt they felt a lot better about it.
- LEST THE BOYS FEEL they were the victims of a plan to let us reassure them that no one is the victim of psychology, not even real psychology. It's not a sort of dose of castor oil in a cup of sweet coffee—rather it is an effort to understand one's needs and fulfill them in a constructive manner.
- THE SEA CADET here hit on one of the basic remedies for a lot of our ills of children and adults. We need to have a certain amount of spare steam which is not used up in our ordinary duties, and we've a desire to use it somehow.
- IT SO HAPPENS that there's a lot of devilish ways to use it, and many of these are pretty attractive. So about the only thing we can do about it is to provide something on the constructive side which is also attractive.
- THAT'S THE SOLUTION we arrive at when we provide rinks and sports for various kinds for the kids. We want to give them something to do, and something to aim at.
- THIS ALL BRINGS US BACK to the local arena. It will serve its greatest purpose when it is used to occupy the largest number of children possible during the largest time possible.
- HIGH FALUTIN' ideas about professional hockey are not in themselves to be criticized—provided they do not draw us away from the primary purpose of the whole plan. Of course it will reflect a lot on the honor of the town if we turned out a couple of real hockey stars—but it will reflect a lot more on our honor if we turn out a few hundred real fine men and women who will establish Wainwright as the home of people who matter.
- SO WHEN WE TALK and plan a bout arenas, and sports, and so forth, let us never lose sight of what we are or should be, really after, after the most we can for the kids of the town and district.
- IT'S A LOT TOO EASY for us to forget the import of the sacrifice that was made in our behalf in the two great wars in which our Canadian men and women took part.
- LACK OF GRATITUDE is one of the most widespread and distasteful of all human tendencies, and one that perhaps causes more hurt than any other selfish human error. We must be on the guard continually against this or we soon fall into the take-all and give-no-thanks category which brands us as pretty anti-social beings.
- LET US NO NEGLECT when remembrance day rolls around that we it not been for the fine young men and women of this and a dozen other countries, who left home and kindred, and placed their lives on the altar, we might well, today, have been living under much less pleasant circumstances.
- THOSE YEARS they gave us, the privations and hurts they suffered, the broken hearts of loved ones left at home and bereaved, saddle us with an insupportable and completely unrepayable debt, that we can but acknowledge.
- AND IN WHAT BETTER way can we acknowledge it than by gathering at the appointed places on November the 11th, wearing our poppies, our coats, and in our minds the best picture we can conjure up of what it all has cost.
- AFTER OUR UNTIMELY spell of cold weather much warmer air has floated in from the Pacific, and as a result the frost has gone out of the ground, the ice from the sloughs, and many farmers are on the land again with tillage implements.
- WITH THE FEED situation none

Dr. J. D. Wallace Gives Address

Mrs. Kenn Tory Heads Home And School Ass'n

The school room was crowded to capacity with parents and teachers when the Wainwright Home and School Association held its first regular meeting of the school year on Wednesday, October 26.

After the regular reports had been read and adopted, the members decided to affiliate with the National School and Home Association and to open membership to parents of any school child rather than to those interested in primary work.

The meeting also endorsed a resolution that government laws against crime should be changed to give greater protection to the public. The matter of road signs was discussed and it was hoped that these would secure evidence for the protection of the school children.

Mrs. O. Griffiths was called on for a report on the hot lunch question. Annual election of officers was held with the following results:

President—Mrs. Kenn Tory
Vice-President—Mr. J. H. Griffiths
Sec.-Treas.—Mrs. Beth Griffiths
Program Committee—Mrs. R. Davidson, Mrs. Holt, Mrs. Simonson, Mr. C. Vallan.

Press Reporter—Mrs. Griffiths

The main feature of the evening was a most interesting address on "Sex Education in the Home" by Dr. J. D. Wallace who handled this very vital subject in a most capable and sympathetic manner. In opening his address, he explained that it was quite impossible to lay down definite rules on the subject, but that he would place before the meeting the findings of those who had made a study of sex behavior.

Psychiatrists believe that our modern divorce, sex crimes, illegitimate children, etc., can be blamed in most cases on lack of sex education. In the United States experiments were made with sex education in schools and it was found that this can be overdone so that pupils later resent it. It has been concluded from various investigations that the child should have sex instruction at home. He would rather hear it from his own parents because his idea of sex has been built around his home. Happy home life is the basis of a normal sex life. Children of the supple world and being under strife are bound to get a distorted view of married life. The home is primarily responsible for the moral aspect of sex whereas the school might supplement this with physiological and hygienic information.

Other points brought out by Dr. Wallace were as follows: In the past discussion of sex in the home had been practically forbidden or what little information had been given was all from a negative view point. Children

Anglicans Received At Tea Friday

More than fifty members of the congregation called at the Parish Hall of St. Thomas Church, Friday afternoon last, to be received by Mrs. E. K. Walters and Mrs. Oliver Griffiths, President of the W.A., at a tea and shower sponsored by their members of the work committee for their coming Banquet on November 19th.

Mrs. J. G. Middleton was in charge of the tea arrangements assisted by Mrs. Bruce McNeil and Mrs. C. T. Lally, while Mrs. W. J. Reynolds received and displayed the gifts.

Many fancy and useful articles were received and a very pleasant time was spent over the tea cups.

Mr. Girling Celebrates 84th Birthday

Over thirty people called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. Griffiths on the afternoon of Sunday, October 23 to extend congratulations to Mr. Girling who was celebrating his eighty-fourth birthday. The table was set with a handsome birthday cake. All enjoyed a cup of tea and refreshments while they chatted with the guest of honor and extended their good wishes. Out of town guests were Mrs. C. Bailey and Mrs. Burton of Tisdale, Sask., who have been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. Griffiths.

Masquerade Dance Is Well Attended

The Wainwright Masquerade Dance sponsored by the C.Y.O. Monday evening, October 24, was well attended, with many fancy costumes and several not quite so familiar.

Mr. and Mrs. Eleanor Penant, represented by Mr. and Mrs. H. Wilbark, were chosen as having the best, original costumes. The Gay Nineties were very well impersonated by Misses Marion Spak and Mary McNeill. The dance was a very charming old fashioned one. The ungodly scarecrow, the dutch girl, the snowman, the pilsener, the cowboy, girls all worthy of mention.

Lunch was served at midnight and dancing continued until two o'clock.

Local Bonspiel Dates Set For January 23 to 25

Nine Sheet Bonspiel Planned
Matched Rocks To Be Held
Fees Raised To $12

A good turnout of nearly fifty men were assured the success of a mid-season meeting of the Wainwright Curling Club, held in the Town Hall last Friday evening. Under the capable chairmanship of President Lev Barlow and spurred on by an too good, and with lots of winter in the air, the people of the town are really appreciate the respite we have received.

● WE WERE PROMISED word on the progress of the gas company's work at Fayban for this issue, but to date it is not forthcoming. However we'll try and get some "gee" on it for you next week folks.

● THIS WHOLE MATTER is rather important to the people of the town, we depend so much on the gas in the winter that any interruption in supply is serious, and a major breakdown of the supply would be nearly catastrophic. However, the town council is hard on the tail of the Gas Co. and we feel that our winter's supply will be assured.

● A NEW OIL WELL is being drilled about seven miles north-east of town. We hope soon to hear a favorable report from the drillers, but at the moment nothing of interest is to hand. A lot of us would like to see some real oil development in these parts. We realize however, that it's not much of a blessing to the farming community, for they don't under the present set up, get adequately paid for the inconvenience of having a well located on their farm.

Western Knitting Mill Scholarship Presented To Mary Mansfield

At the first High School dance of this school year, held in the Masonic Hall on Friday night, Mary Mansfield, local grade twelve student, was honored by being selected as last year's outstanding student in the Wainwright High School. She was presented with a lovely white sweater, trimmed with school colors, the gift of the Western Knitting Mills of Calgary. Mrs. A. McLeod, chairman of the local school board, made the presentation. It was a complete surprise to Mary, and to all except the High School Staff. The evening given Mary was evidence that she was a popular choice for the honor.

The dance was a very successful affair. It was well attended by students, staff and their invited friends. The local Swingers orchestra supplied splendid music.

Town Topics

We drove to Edmonton last week and at the suggestion of a friend took the new alternate route. This consisted of swinging north through Tofield for 14 miles and then swinging south to Edmonton on 27 miles or so of lovely new black-top highway. After the hot pot and dust of Highway 14 it was a real pleasure to drive on the new road, and while this route is six miles longer than the regular one it is well worth the difference. The stretch from Tofield northward is a bit gummy in wet weather but otherwise it's really the way to go.

On the way back we used the same route and as we bumped and lurched along the stretch from Holden to Bruce we made a mental threat to start drastic action against the powers that be to have something done. We wished that the Minister of Public Works and the local member had been working in the back seat for the combating of bumps, dust and language would certainly have precipitated some violent action.

On arriving home, however, we learned that the local member has been elected to the House of Commons and is spending his time in Ottawa and is spending for smaller action himself—which makes the feeling unanimous among all who ever have cause to drive to Edmonton. Not only is the road in very poor shape due to the heavy traffic and military traffic but, as we still, what we have got is not maintained. If there had been a grade over that Holden to Bruce stretch in the past month it certainly must have been driven with the blades up. It is known for a fact that the road east from Wainwright has not been graded all fall and the same thing probably happens elsewhere on the route.

A most annoying feature of the whole deal is that we pay as much in gasoline taxes and in license fees as those in areas that have had surfaced highways built and rebuilt several times over. In Wainwright we have one of the largest military catchment areas in Canada, all the vehicles wearing an Alberta license tag. Yet many of these vehicles have to detour through Vermilion to get here in the first place. Surely this road deserves consideration.

There is such a road hard on the temper but it certainly does no good to cars going over it. Many dollars worth of costly repairs have resulted from these pot holes and the flying gravel. In a province as well off as this one is at the moment this is not only undesirable, it is unnecessary.

We heartily endorse last week's editorial and suggest that Mr. Mason carry his campaign to the floor of the legislature with the moral backing of the whole constituency. Further backing should be given him by the council and Chamber of Commerce along the route sending in a continual barrage of letters and petitions to the Ministry of Public Works. The full weight of the Army should be enlisted in an attempt to stop the necessity for a surfaced road through the town.

Newspaper reports would indicate that the Trans-Canada Highway is definitely going South and the town would now seem to be ripe to launch our campaign from wanting a road "anywhere in the North" to demanding a good road through here. It has been proven time and again that you don't get anything by lying down and waiting for it but that results usually come from a concerted drive. So let's start a "Hard Surfaced Highway 14" campaign now for some action next spring.

In the meantime, when traveling to Edmonton, give the car a treat for at least part of the way and swing north at Tofield—or better still have pity on your vehicle and go by train.

An Invitation To Listen To Citizens' Radio Forum

If you're looking for a "Krym" like yourself to give standard treatment to because you missed Dr. Wallace's talk on "Sex Education in the Home", cancel your order. You can square it with your parental conscience by listening to a round-table discussion on the subject Thursday night, November 17. This broadcast of a discussion by experts and a few everyday people like ourselves comes in the program "Citizens' Forum."

The 1949-50 Citizens' Forum is getting under way with several broadcasts on subjects of special interest to parents and to the children themselves. I'm sure many teen-agers heard a girl and boy their own age talk over the matter of "Discipline, Freedom or License" with a parent, a high school principal, and our best known western psychologist Dr. R. H. Laycock. This Thursday at 9:00 p.m. over CBX you might listen to "What Will You Tell Your Child About Sex?" You'll hear too, about an opportunity of getting their outline on this topic free.

Your Thursday may be booked solid for the season. But don't miss a valuable afternoon program every Thursday afternoon at 2:45. Dr. Laycock talks informally and excitingly about "How to guide our teenagers to greater emotional maturity." You'll be charmed with him.

Let's learn the easy way—let's listen to Citizens' Forum and CBC School for Parents—let's become home-wise, school-wise, community-wise!

Remembrance Day To Be Observed Here

The Annual Remembrance Day service will be held in Wainwright on Friday, November 11th, when the Canadian Legion will be in charge.

Everyone taking part in the parade will wear a poppy. The parade will start at 10:30 a.m. when the parade will be formed and proceed to the Memorial Clock Tower. Here the Canadian Legion and Ladies' Auxiliary will lay wreaths, in memory of those comrades, who have fallen in battle. All others intending to lay wreaths at the Tower should do so before the ceremony begins.

The reason for the above is that in case of inclement weather, there will not be a lengthy ceremony at the memorial.

From the Tower the parade will proceed to the Elite Theatre where a Remembrance Day service will be conducted.

Thankoffering Meeting Of W.M.S.

The regular October meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church was also their Thankoffering meeting and was held in the Sunday School room on October 27th. She also spoke on suitable Temperance literature, and was ably assisted in this by Mrs. Ingie, Mrs. Fletcher and Mrs. Enger of Irma, and Mrs. L. Mitchell of Wainwright. The literature mentioned included, "Lots of People Don't Drink," and "Alcohol and Accidents." A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Mrs. Reeds and her helpers.

SAVING THE SOIL

With the awarding of the prizes for the "Save the Soil" Campaign coming up on Thursday of this week, we are moved again to make comment on this program. We call it a program advisedly, because, while it features a campaign, with honors going to those who make the best showings, this is really one of elements of lesser importance. Nor do the prizes, desirable as they may be, make much of a showing when compared with the advantages the plan has to offer those whom embrace it wholeheartedly.

The farmer is in a different position to most of us in other businesses. It is happen to be a pretty bad printer, or grocer, or garage-man or doctor we will, without question, eventually ruin our business, whatever it may be. Our customers will depart and take their business elsewhere and our good name will be lost, and we'll just have to fold up and look for something else to do. But let some more active person take our place, and the clientele we lost will eventually come back, and the business which was wrecked will be rebuilt.

Our failure will not have changed the amount of business, and our loss will mostly be our own.

The farmer however, inherits a sacred trust. The land on which he farms, and from which he hopes to win his livelihood is something permanent. Long after his life is dead and memories of his virtues and vices have faded, that land will be there, and on it others will be striving as he did. The fertility which was robbed through improper conservation methods is very difficult to replace. Soil that has been eroded by wind or water is lost forever, fibre that is gone can be replaced, but before that it done, irreparable damage may have resulted. The future of any farm depends to some extent on the care it receives from those who in passing make it their home.

Of course we quite understand that farmers may in a way resent being told how to run their business by "professionals", but these professionals have an opportunity that few farmers enjoy, of gathering and disseminating information. With their activities covering the province and their work being closely tied with all agricultural research both in and out of Alberta, they are able to base their suggestions on a much wider foundation that could any individual. From the errors that have wrought havoc in other areas they can draw their warnings for us, and from the remedies that have been proven practical, they can prescribe our solutions.

The question is really more important than personal pride, it is something that must be faced with the greatest possible fairness and enthusiasm. In view of this the results of the grading for the past season as not too reassuring. While they may work out according to the law of averages, they do not indicate a desirable awareness of conditions. Scoring showed 10 percent of those in this year's competition as improving; 70 percent standing still, and 20 percent actually going backward.

While we realize that there are many difficulties peculiar to farming, and that the farmer's life is far from a bed of roses, still we feel that in view of the great importance of the situation a determined effort should be made to cope with the problem in a more effective manner than these results indicate.

NOT STRENGTH ALONE

Prepare yourselves for the great world as athletes used to for their exercises; oil your mind and your manners to give them the necessary suppleness and flexibility; strength alone will not do, as young people are apt to think.—Lord Chesterfield.

FARMERS' CURLING FEES

It was gratifying to note that the local curling club, in keeping with its past practise, and in keeping also with most other town curling clubs in the vicinity, decided to offer the advantages of their rink to the farmers at a lower figure than for town curlers. This is by no means charity, for as such it would not be desirable to the rural residents. This arrangement is based on two important features. One of these features is the added difficulty and cost incurred by men from the farm when they come to town to curl and the other is the desire of townspeople to express their appreciation to their country neighbors. It is all too easy to drift into a state of forgetfulness of our continuing debt to those about us who gain their livelihood from agriculture. In the exigencies of business and in our local pride and our desire to improve our own situation and living conditions we are just a little apt to be forgetful of those who make our living possible. It would take a very poor imagination to picture what would happen to our business in our various urban centres if the surrounding farms were suddenly vacated. Yes, most of us would go out of business, and do so very quickly. So, folks, just remember, the farmers are always more important than the townspeople, and the affairs of the rural area of greater import than those of us who live in the groups called villages and towns.

Moreover, most of the things we have for the building up of town facilities and attended by people from the country, who come and do their bit by their patronage or actual assistance.

TWENTIETH CENTURY ATLAS

Joe Rutledge Says

By Joseph Lister Rutledge

A MATTER OF TASTE

We grow a little restive under the suspicion that government that have determined to provide so many safeguards of which we once assured ourselves might, one day, undertake to think for us as well as act for us. Then we move, automatically, into an authoritarian state.

We have no doubt of the sound intent behind the appointment of a Royal Commission on Cultural Affairs but we shudder at its possible implications. Government is already determining our radio tastes cultivating and censoring at will. Now the Canadian Association for Adult Education is petitioning this current Royal Commission charged, as we understand it, with determining our tastes and interests to petition government for another such commission to decide what they should be and direct them to that end.

We do not question the good intent of all these efforts. But we do raise our individual voice against them. The end of this sort of thing is to keep us sternal adolescents. That is even now one of the most potent dangers of this age. Sooner or later we must grow up, make our own decisions, provide our own needs, establish our own tastes. The alternative is some form of statism or worse. We still believe that it is impossible to establish tastes without first developing men capable of having tastes of their own. A lot less harm will come to us from the fact that a percentage of our citizens prefer Donald Duck to Shakespeare than will inevitably result from bureaucratic determination.

In Russia architects have been told what types of houses and buildings they may create; painters what types of paintings they may produce, writers what themes they may present; editors what theories they may follow; churchmen what creeds they may espouse. Historians are directed to claim that Russian initiative has produced everything; the British tank, the Canadian telephone, the American atom bomb, the British penicillin. Does that mean that people think more freely or more wisely? In fact it means that a naturally friendly and unaggressive people have become a threat to the world. You, can't dominate thought without changing people and events.

Let's prefer Donald Duck to Shakespeare, if we must, but let it be our own preference springing from within. It may not be gratifying to our intellectual betters, but it is a lot more wholesome and a lot safer than letting any government tell us what to prefer.

A rare occurrence in Canadian parliamentary history took place in Ottawa last week. For the second time in one year a finance minister brought down a budget. The budget presented to the Commons by Finance Minister, Abbott last Thursday was little changed from his tax-slashing, pre-election budget of last March 22 that was not passed when parliament was dissolved last April to hold a general election. The sweeping income tax reductions and other cuts that affected practically every Canadian home were retained in the revised budget. And just for good measure Mr. Abbott added three more small tax reductions representing a saving of about $4,000,000 for tax payers in the current fiscal year and about $11,000,000 in a full year. Although a wel-were only a drop in the bucket compared with the more than $800,000,000 lopped off government tax revenues by the finance minister in his original budget.

The three new tax reductions were: 1. Immediate elimination of the eight-per-cent sales tax on fuel oils used for heating or lighting purposes.

2. A reduction immediately of from 50 to 25 cents a gallon on the tax on cider and other wines containing less than seven per cent of proof spirits. 3. Holders of both common and preferred stock will be able to charge up to 10 per cent of their dividends against personal income tax. In the earlier budget this concession was given only to common stock holders. The change will be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1949.

Business Booms
For the third straight year Mr. Abbott happily announced that government business was booming. Surplus of revenues over expenditures for the fiscal year ending last March 31 was $185,000,000. That figure was some $20,000,000 greater than he estimated last March.

He forecast that the 1949-50 surplus would be "very close to the $27,000,000 figure he estimated last March. The small surplus compared to the year before is, of course, largely due to the sweeping tax reductions. There was little doubt that the tax reductions left most Canadians happy. But one section of the finance minister's budget address drew quick opposition fire.

After reviewing domestic and international economic conditions, Mr. Abbott said conditions "have not altered sufficiently since last March to warrant any significant changes in our tax proposals."

Mr. Abbott had hardly resumed his seat when Hon. Earl Rowe, a financial critic for the Progressive Conservatives and member for the Ontario constituency of Dufferin-Simcoe, jumped to his feet and charged that the reintroduced budget was "shockingly obsolete" in the face of world debate. With an overwhelming majority the Liberals showed not the least sign of worry.

Comic Worries
The Liberals may have little to worry about. But it was increasingly evident in Ottawa last week that some of the Canadians who made their living distributing and selling reading matter soon would have worries.

The Justice Minister spoke at the Commons gave second reading to an amendment to the Criminal Code which would make publishers, sellers and distributors of crime comics liable to prosecution. Sponsor of the bill, which is acclaimed on all sides of the House, is E. D. Fulton, national leader of the Young Progressive Conservative Association and member for the British Columbia constituency of Kamloops.

Mr. Garson said the Attorney-General of the provinces will be asked for their suggestions as to how to make section 107 of the criminal code more enforceable than at present.

The section, under which crime comics will be included, provides a maximum penalty of two years imprisonment for anyone convicted of wilfully publishing, distributing or selling obscene literature.

One of the main difficulties in enforcing the law is that clause "wilfully."

Mr. Garson pointed out that a book-seller handling thousands of books just can't read them all. And it is hardly fair to convict a book-seller because he sold a book that, without his knowledge was obscene.

Throughout the week the wordy battle over Canada's right to amend her own constitution and the method of obtaining that right waged in the Commons and in the Senate.

It was first touched off when the government introduced a bill to abolish appeals to the Privy Council shortly after the present session started. That bill was approved by the Commons over bitter opposition from the Progressive Conservatives, and went before the Senate.

plenty of them. Justice Minister Garson rose in the Commons to announce that the federal government is asking the provinces to help find ways of plugging loopholes in the criminal code through which many publishers are getting away with turning out obscene literature. And he also said the federal government is willing to include crime comics in the provisions of the criminal code.

The Justice Minister spoke at the Commons gave second reading to an amendment to the Criminal Code which would make publishers, sellers and distributors of crime comics liable to prosecution. Sponsor of the bill, which is acclaimed on all sides of the House, is E. D. Fulton, national leader of the Young Progressive Conservative Association and member for the British Columbia constituency of Kamloops.

Mr. Garson said the Attorney-General of the provinces will be asked for their suggestions as to how to make section 107 of the criminal code more enforceable than at present.

The section, under which crime comics will be included, provides a maximum penalty of two years imprisonment for anyone convicted of wilfully publishing, distributing or selling obscene literature.

One of the main difficulties in enforcing the law is that clause "wilfully."

HEAT STOCK WATER
Most farmers agree that warm drinking water in cold weather helps stock to gain weight and saves feed. Milking cows produce more milk when the calf is taken off the water. A good tank heater is essential, but insulation of sides and the top of the tank is necessary also. A door in the top to close at night is another good point. Now is the time to fix up a serviceable warm water supply before winter sets in.
VERMILION LIVESTOCK SALE
A sale of registered livestock will take place in Vermilion on Tuesday, November 8 at 1:00 p.m. The following numbers of livestock are listed for sale:

Cattle
Hereford—Male - 14 Female - 23
Shorthorn—Male - 8 Female - 16
Aberdeen Angus—Male - 1 Female - 2
Swine
Yorkshire—Boars - 26 Sows - 9
Gilts - 35
Tamworth—Boars - 1 Gilts - 2
This is a chance for stockmen to get good breeding stock. Hog raisers can purchase good boars that are hard to obtain locally.

FROZEN CREAM
Frozen cream goes into second grade. It produces a really butter. In cold weather protect cream from freezing. Only clean flavoured, nonfrozen cream can obtain the highest price.

THE FEED RESERVE
Early signs of winter indicate the possibility of a long feeding period for stockmen in this area. The feed reserve is not high and farmers should feed with care for the coming months. Feed spread on the ground is very wasteful. Bunks should be made to feed from. Hammering hay and straw with cattle or barley will make a good feed and stretch out the supply of roughage. If hay has to be shipped into the district the price will be very high.

BUILDING BRIGHTNESS
This is a good time to brighten the inside of barns and poultry houses so that full use may be made of the limited daylight hours. White wash of one coat is the cheapest and quickest means of doing this, and methods of making two types of white wash are here suggested by Mr. C. A. Chesbire, Extension Agricultural Engineer, Alberta Department of Agriculture.
White wash No. 1
(1) Add 25 pounds of hydrated lime to 4 gallons of boiling water, stirring vigorously.
(2) Into 1 gallon of water and 2 gallons of skimmed milk mix 5 pounds of soft, 1 pound of alum, 5 pounds of Portland cement and 1/4 tin of lye.
(3) Mix solutions (1) and (2) together when cold, stirring vigorously.
White wash No. 2
(1) Add 1 sack of hydrated lime to 5 or 6 gallons of water.
(2) To this add 2 gallons of flour paste made as follows:
(a) Mix dry flour and cold water to a stiff paste.
(b) Add boiling water, stirring vigorously, until the paste has a thick creamy consistency.
Both of these white washes are resistant to rubbing off and either may be applied by brush or sprayer. The white wash should be applied in a thin, even coat, and not "brushed out". One gallon will cover approximately 225 square feet. To make the white wash disinfected, add from one to two quarts of carbolic acid to either of the above formulae. The amount of carbolic acid will be determined by the strength of disinfectant required.

WEED CONTROL CONFERENCE TO BE HELD IN EDMONTON
The third annual Western Weed Control Conference will be held this year at the Macdonald Hotel, Edmonton on November 15th, 16th and 17th. The two previous meetings, at Regina in 1947 and Winnipeg in 1948, dealt chiefly with chemical weed control. Although this topic will not be neglected at the coming conference, more consideration than formerly will be given to tillage practices in the control of weeds.
The Hon. D. A. Ure, Minister of Agriculture for Alberta, will preside during the first morning of the conference. Representatives of weed control services throughout the four western provinces will be present, and representation is also expected from chemical companies, machinery companies and the grain growers who are all keenly interested in this work.
Talks on chemical weed control, dormancy and irregular germination of weed seeds, tillage practices for eradication of annuals and perennials and machinery types and uses with reference to the weed control problem, will be heard from eminent authorities from east and west. Farmers views on weed control will also be presented. Guest speaker at the banquet on November 16th will be Dr. W. W. Neatby, Director of Science Service, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

LAST CALL FOR SEED EXHIBITS
J. E. Hirdwall, Supervisor of Crop Improvement, suggests that with fall work out of the way, farmers who have suitable grain would do well to prepare one or two exhibition samples and enter them in the international shows at Toronto and Chicago. It is not too late if a start is made at once. Alberta has done well at these shows in past years and it is expected that a large number of high class exhibits will go forward this year.
The Alberta Department of Agriculture assembles the exhibits in Edmonton for shipment to the shows. Samples for Toronto must reach Edmonton by November 4th and those for Chicago by November 11th. An exhibit sent to Toronto may be shipped to Chicago if the exhibitor wishes, but if this is done, he will have to take the chance of it falling through unexpected delay to reach the Chicago show. If exhibit is desired at both shows, it is better to send two samples, one for each show.
Full information is available from District Agriculturalists. They can supply price lists, entry forms, details with respect to Provincial assistance, and a mimeograph dealing with preparation of seed for exhibition. If more convenient, information can be obtained from the Field Crops Branch, Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton. Hand screens for preparing seed exhibits are also available at cost from the Field Crops Branch.

PREVENT FIRES BEFORE THEY START
Furnaces will soon be lit in most farm homes against the coming blizzards of winter. Among the dozen most common causes of fires in rural Canadian homes those originating from heating and cooking equipment are prominent. Here is the list of common causes: chimneys of sub-standard construction; sparks from dirty chimneys; faulty smoke-pipes and stove installations; seasonal grass and brush fires; spontaneous ignition of hay; worn-out shingle roofs; lighted lanterns; misuse of electrical equipment; the shifting operations with gasoline powered engines; matches or smoking in out-buildings; lighting.
The time to prevent a fire is before it starts. Chimneys and smoke pipes can be checked, gasoline can be stored away from main buildings, oily rags never left lying about.
An excellent fire prevention on the farm is a roof ladder. Keep a few buckets of water ready for use and a number of water barrels at suitable points is an added precaution. But they are worse than useless if the water is frozen solid should a sudden emergency arise, so choose a reasonably warm place.
A standard two-and-a-half soda acid fire extinguisher is often a weapon which will protect an incipient fire and prevent disaster.

CATTLE MARKETING UP; HOGS DOWN
In reviewing the livestock situation to date in Current Review of Agricultural Conditions in Canada, a publication of the Economics Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, it is reported that marketings as well as prices of cattle continue to be higher in 1949 than during comparable periods of 1948. The resulting smaller supplies of beef on the domestic market, together with smaller supplies of other meats, and continued high level of consumers' incomes, has meant strong prices for cattle.
Inspected slaughtering of cattle during the first seven months of 1949 were 728 thousand head, compared with 724 thousand during the same period of 1948. Slaughtering in western Canada were five per cent below those of 1948, while the kill in eastern Canada to date was almost seven per cent above that of 1948.
Exports of all cattle to the United States during the January-July period were 147 thousand head in 1949, about double the exports for the same period of 1948. Exports of dressed beef during the first seven months of 1949 were 28 million pounds, compared with 43 million during the seven-month period in 1948.
Total hog marketings in Canada during the January-July, 1949 period were declined as markedly from 1948 levels. In western Canada the reduced marketings, which characterized the hog markets early in the year, have continued. In eastern Canada, on the other hand, weekly slaughtering began early in July to exceed those of comparable weeks of 1948.
The average weight dressed weight of the inspected slaughter was about five pounds higher during the first seven months of 1949 as compared with 1948, but about the same as in 1947.
Exports of cured pork products to all countries amounted to 12.5 million pounds in the January-July period of 1949. In 1948 the quantity was 17.7 million pounds for the same period.

THE MISSING MINERALS
Housewives who peel the potatoes for dinner right after the breakfast dishes are out of the way fail to realize the prolonged cooking allowed good part of the vitamin and mineral value of the food to escape... not to mention the flavor.

FOUNDATION STOCK SEED PROGRAM
In accordance with the regulations of the Canadian Seed Growers Association, institutions or individuals who have varieties approved by the Association are required to produce foundation seed stocks of those varieties. This seed is then distributed to registered seed growers for further multiplication. It forms the basic seed stock of the approved variety and must therefore truly represent the variety, says R. M. MacVicar, Forage Plants Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.
The production of foundation stock seed of high quality and purity is an exacting task even for the plant breeders concerned with it. Most of Canada's perennial grasses, clovers and alfalfa are normally cross-pollinated. Consequently at the outset the producer must cope with the trouble some problem of isolating the foundation seed blocks in order to prevent contamination by other varieties of the same species. Seed blocks must be carefully rogued for off-type plants and to do this it is frequently necessary to grow large individual plants. Harvesting must be carefully done so that seed of exceptional quality will be obtained. Mechanical mixtures have to be avoided so harvesting and threshing and cleaning machinery must be thoroughly cleaned before the seed is passed through it.
Foundation stock seed production is an expensive and painstaking task. For this reason it is necessary to limit production to the minimum, keeping in mind the essential needs of the registered seed growers. The cost of producing foundation stock seed is extremely high and cannot be recovered from the grower. Therefore can only be repaid by the knowledge that real benefits will eventually accrue to the farmers from the foundation stock seed program.

USE A WANT AD!
Hello Homemakers:
These days when it is chilly outside we usually have our stoves hot enough to heat the kitchen. If not the whole house so why not utilize the oven heating by preparing oven meals? Why is it good to cook foods in the oven? Here are a few good reasons.
1. Foods cooked in the oven retain more food value when we follow the directions for time and temperature. Let's save all those vitamins and minerals.
2. Save time. Oven meals give a sense of freedom. When food is cooked in the oven we are saved from standing over the hot stove either stirring or watching for that pot to boil.
Of course you do your part in preparing the food and regulating the oven. Let the oven do the work and share the responsibility.
3. Save dishes. Plan to serve oven products in the baking dishes to cut down on extra dish washing. How easy it is to do just with all the new pyrex dishes which look attractive on the table.
4. Save fuel. When a whole meal or part of a meal is cooked in the oven we use less electricity or gas than during top-of-the-stove cooking.

NEWS NOTES from your Dist. Home Economist
Sheila M. Forrest, Ryley
Don't serve several strong or sharp flavoured foods without some mild flavoured foods to "go with them". Colour combinations in food are just as important as in clothes or interior decorations. Remember not all white—add some color to the dinner plate. And beets and carrots would rather not be seen together! Something crisp should appear on every plate. We usually solve this with a crisp salad. A crisp cookie with a soft dessert is a good idea too. Variety in shapes may be stressed. Avoid mashed potatoes, mashed turnips, etc. Niblet corn and green peas are better served at separate meals. Here's a poem on the subject.
Do have a menu planner too. Canada's Food Rules hold the key. But colour, flavour and texture too. All play a part in the job you do. Next week I'll have some suggested combinations and a few recipes for your oven meals.

FOR WORK OR PLAY

Girls and women should learn to distinguish between "work" shoes and "play" shoes. For standing all day the feet need firm, comfortable support and a low heel, otherwise the balance of the whole body is upset and backache may be caused. Splice heels should be moved for the dancing. Your feet are probably the most abused part of your body. Treat them to well-fitting, comfortable shoes.

DIVIDEND CHEQUES ARE DISTRIBUTED BY PIONEER AGENTS

Payment of its eighth consecutive cash patronage dividend on grain delivered to its country elevators, is being made by local Pioneer Grain Company agents.

"Our company started a policy of paying patronage dividends to our customers in 1941, immediately after the Dominion Government amended income tax regulations to permit Line Elevator Companies to make these payments, and we have made annual patronage dividend payments in cash ever since," said William McG. Rait, President and General Manager of the Pioneer Grain Company. He also stated "It is the intention of the Company to pay a patronage dividend on 1949-50 deliveries to Pioneer elevators, if earnings permit."

"Since this policy of paying patronage dividends was put into effect, we have paid a total of 9 cents per bushel on wheat, and 7 cents per bushel on coarse grains; and in addition we distributed to our customers a fortuitous payment of 16 1/2 cents per bushel on barley and 13 1/4 cents per bushel on Oats delivered in the 1947-48 crop year, prior to the removal of price ceilings. We made the first of these payments made by any country elevator organization."

Argentine Currency
On October 3, the Government of Argentina announced a devaluation of her currency in terms of United States dollars. The reduction varies widely as applied to individual commodities and to export and imports. Even before devaluation there were no less than eight different rates for exports and imports. It is probable that under the new management there will be ten.

U.K.-Soviet Trade
It has been officially confirmed in the United Kingdom that a trade agreement has been concluded with Russia, presumably on a barter basis. Britain is to receive one million tons of coarse grains. The previous contract with Russia was for 750,000 tons of coarse grains.

This quantity together with 1.3 million tons of Argentine maize will provide 2.3 million tons toward Great Britain's total requirements of six million tons of rationed feeding stuffs to be distributed in the country during 1949-50.

Belgian Meat
The contract between Belgium and the Argentine, which is now about a year old, included 40 thousand tons of Argentine meat, of which only a quarter has been delivered so far. It is reported that with more meat available in Europe, Belgium may not extend the agreement to include the unfilled portion of the contract.

INCENTIVE SYSTEM

The boss on the contracting job very confidentially offered me a dollar a week more than the other carpenters to set the pace and see that they kept pace with me.

After the job was finished the men all gathered for a celebration. During the course of the evening, we talked about the job and the boss. "He's a swell egg," one man said. "Why, he paid me an extra dollar to keep you guys working."

Yes, he was a "swell egg"—he paid every one of us an extra dollar a week to "set the pace."

LATE FALL SEEDING OF GRASSES AND LEGUMES

In many parts of central Alberta the past growing season has been a difficult one in which to establish new seedings of grasses and legumes. Dry soil conditions prevailed in most of the area from early spring to midsummer. Many seedling-down operations have been postponed on that account and where seedings were made failures to establish stands have resulted and reseeding will be necessary.

The results of dates of seeding trials conducted over a period of years by the Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe, show that late fall seedings of grasses and legumes are usually successful. However, seeding should not be done, says H. Steffen, until after active growth has ceased so that the seeds do not germinate until the following spring.

Late fall seedings can be advantageous under a variety of circumstances. It affords an opportunity for reseeding where spring seedings have failed to establish or where such seedings were postponed because of adverse growing conditions. It also is of particular value for locations which are subject to spring flooding. These areas are often not dry enough to get on with machinery until late spring or early summer. Spring seeding is then delayed so late that hot July weather results in loss of the stand.

Late fall seeding is also recommended for drought locations where maximum use is required to be made of early spring moisture for establishing a stand. In addition, fall seeding of grasses and legumes relieves the pressure on spring seeding operations of cereal crops.

In planning for late fall seedings a few important considerations must be made. Seeding is done without a nurse crop. Drilling the seed about 1/2 to 1 inch deep directly into grain stubble or trash cover of annual weeds is the most satisfactory. The stubble holds the seed and protects the young seedlings as they are becoming established. A summer fallow seeding is more subject to wind erosion during the fall and winter and water erosion from the spring runoff. Clipping of the first year's growth is produced during the first year. When harvesting the first year's growth hay it should be cut early enough to allow the plants to produce a good growth before freeze-up or cutting should be delayed until active growth has ceased. In this way loss of stand through winter killing will be avoided.

MODERN SCIENCE ATTACKS PROBLEM OF TOOTH DECAY

Modern science has spread the word that in all probability there will, in future, be a lot less of that great indoor and outdoor Canadian worry—tooth-decay and tooth-ache.

The reason why one member of a family is troubled with tooth-decay and his brother or sister are not, has long been a matter of scientific enquiry and research.

Recent findings by men of science make it seem probable that, in the future, the average Canadian will spend fewer hours in the dentist's chair in so doing he or she will save considerable time, pain and worry. Many theories were exploded before it was proven that wherever tooth decay is high there is, also, in the mouth, a big content of a tiny organism called by its scientific name—Lactobacillus Acidophilus or L.A. for short. In mouths that are decay-free, so a low content of this organism, or have a low occurrence, there is a low content of this organism.

Two members of the same family may not exactly the same things and yet one has a good deal of tooth-decay and the other little or none at all. Why the difference? Science has now found that there is more ammonia in the saliva of the 'decay-free' person. This ammonia in the mouth not only attacks and destroys the organism L.A. but it also dissolves the glue coating that form on the enamel of the teeth and harbours the organism. The most effective way to introduce ammonia into those mouths that have little is by means of a toothpaste or toothpowder.

MEN EXPECT IT, SO WOMEN FEAR WIGGLING WORMS

DENVER, Colo.—Frank O'Brien is convinced that women have an ulterior motive for hating worms.

The motive is men. O'Brien, a 37-year-old six-footer, is in a position to know what he's talking about. Last year the 15 best "diggers" at his Colorado earthworm hatchery were girls. They dug about 5,000,000 redworms out of the ground for the hatchery owner.

"I pay them 7 1/2 cents for every can of a hundred worms," O'Brien says. "Some of the girls make nice money. Five-six dollars in a day. They've got ideal fingers for handling worms, nimble and gentle."

O'Brien is certain that if females really hated worms they would hate his brand most. He's seen them in the business five years and now breeds only an active, skiny, very red product. It is smaller and considerably wigglier than either the right crawler or common earthworm.

"I've seen the girls wear 'em like bracelets—you know, just for a laugh," O'Brien said.

He beckoned pretty Joan Church, 14, from one of the digging beds. Joan wore some of the worms like a bracelet. At O'Brien's suggestion, "You don't mind them, do you?" O'Brien asked her.

"No, I don't mind them," she said, dropping the worm back on the sorting table. She returned to her pitchfork.

Boys To Blame
"Next year she'll probably mind them," O'Brien said with something akin to sadness. "Four years now she's worked summers. One of the best. Next year she'll start going with boys."

O'Brien says that once girls start taking the menfolk seriously they're done as worm pickers. He says the girls figure the boys want them to be afraid of worms. And he says the girls are right; that the boys figure a girl is somehow indecent if she can grasp a worm without breaking out in a cold sweat.

"I've let Joan dig a lot of my foreign shipments," O'Brien says. "She's like worms that were mailed to New Zealand, Alaska and Denmark. Every state in the union. But watch her a year from now."

O'Brien has millions of worms breeding in a lot 125 feet by 60 feet alongside his mother's home. He feeds them lettuce leaves—just meat, tree leaves and rusted cans. They are especially fond of rust when it is thick, soft and flaky.

Since the prevailing prices on leaves and rusted cans is quite reasonable, his food bill is negligible. In one year two worms can produce in the neighborhood of 20 brand new worms on this diet, hence O'Brien makes a fair living.

Most of his sales are to farmers and gardeners, who use the worms to enrich soil. Worms aerate the ground by burrowing, and leave castings which improve the mineral content. Fishermen buy a small percentage of the crop, as do university biology departments.

BRUIN MISSED MEAL

KAMLOOPS, B.C.—It was meal time when a big grizzly chased Roger Babin up a tree. Babin suffered leg lacerations but clung to his rifle and fired three point-blank shots into the bear's shoulders before it climbed down and departed.

BRITONS LIVE LONGER

LONDON—More than twice as many people in Britain are living past the age of 85 than in 1931. Official figures show there are 128,000 men and women over 85. Women of this age outnumber men by more than two to one.

powders are now to be had at an increasing number of stores but don't make the mistake of using household ammonia. It is entirely different from the chemical substance used in Ammonium-iron dentifrices. For best results the mouth should not be rinsed after using leave the residue in the mouth to go on generating ammonia.

Ammonium-iron is no cure-all, but all evidence points to its being a simple inexpensive way to cut down on cavities, pain and expense.

THOUSANDS VISIT ROOSEVELT'S HOME IN GEORGIA PINES

WARM SPRINGS, Va.—Visitors to the Little White House, the Georgia home of the late President Roosevelt, want most to see the chair in which he was sitting when he was stricken and the bed in which he died.

The chair and the bed are there, and everything else in the cottage is just as it was April 12, 1945, the day of his death.

On Oct. 28, 1948, the Little White House, a small frame cottage deep in Georgia pine woods, was opened to the public.

Since then, more than 100,000 persons—from every state and from 38 foreign countries—have visited the cottage. Between 2,000 and 3,000 come every week.

Mrs. Roosevelt has been back only twice since her husband died. In Atlanta last month for a speech, she took time to drive to Warm Springs for a few hours.

Leo S. Trimble, secretary of the Franklin D. Roosevelt Warm Springs Memorial Commission, said it was obvious Mr. Roosevelt never intended his Little White House to be a memorial, as he did his estate at Hyde Park.

The Little White House was not built as a permanent home, or as a show place. F.D.R. planned it as a quiet hideaway retreat. The cottage is not on any main route of travel. It's reached by a winding trail through the woods, a mile or so off the highway.

House Was Guarded

Immediately following Mr. Roosevelt's death, people began to visit the cottage, though the house was closed and guarded. They came by the hundreds. The memorial commission was created to establish the Little White House as a public memorial.

Guards kept visitors behind a fence as the work of restoring the house began. Visitors could see the house, but couldn't go inside. New timbers were placed under floors to support them. Guide ropes were set up around furniture. Some objects were put under glass for protection.

But everything was left just as it was the day Mr. Roosevelt died. The chair in which he was sitting to have his portrait painted is in the same spot. His desk is nearby. Ship models are on the mantel.

Near the Little White House is a two-room cottage Mrs. Roosevelt used to store gifts. When members of the commission unlocked it and dug through the dust, they found his walking canes. There were also paintings, small objects of art, books and other sorts of things people send presidents.

President Roosevelt gave his farm of 3,000 acres on Fins Mountain to the Warm Springs Foundation two years before his death. He willed the Little White House and its contents to the foundation.

All visitors seem to enjoy learning that a president, rich in his own right, would plan such a simple dwelling for himself.

PEAT BOG YIELDS BONANZA HARVEST

TORONTO—There is a pretty good chance that the cranberries you will have with this year's Christmas dinner will come from the farm of George B. Mollard, of Toronto and MacTier, Ont.

Five years ago Mr. Mollard started growing cranberries—a business which in Ontario, is about as common as elephant herding.

Most of the province's cranberries come from Wisconsin and Massachusetts, but the enterprising Mr. Mollard literally dug into a bog of almost pure peat which is ideal for growing the berries, and came up with a crop which he estimates will net him about $15,000 a year.

But it isn't like growing anything else, he says. One of his difficulties is discovering how to grow the berries. It takes a lot of hard work, experimenting, and a bit of the gambling spirit.

But $15,000 is a nice reward for a gamble.

FAMILY ALLOWANCE QUESTION BOX

1. I cashed a Family Allowance cheque at my store and before I was able to make my deposit in the bank it was accidentally destroyed. Can it be replaced?

Answer—Yes, you should notify the District Treasury Officer in your Provincial Capital giving the name of the original payee, the month of issue and the amount of the cheque and he will advise you of the action necessary to receive a duplicate.

2. I have been receiving Family Allowances on behalf of my two children but my husband wishes to discontinue receipt of these allowances for personal and religious reasons. Can I receive these allowances against my husband's wishes?

MRS. K.

Answer—Yes, as the payee of Family Allowances is invariably the mother, if you notify your Family Allowance office in your Capital City that you wish to continue receiving Allowances they will continue to forward them to you until you yourself request their cancellation.

3. I registered my new baby for Family Allowances early in the month. Will I receive the additional money on my regular cheque?

EARLY MIRD

Answer—As Family Allowance cheques are issued early in the month in order that delivery is made simultaneously throughout the Province, you will not likely receive the additional amount until the following month when the double payment may be included for the child depending upon the date of registration.

4. Some time ago I misplaced a Family Allowance cheque and only recently discovered it. Is the cheque still good or must I obtain a new one?

ABERNETHY MINDED

Answer—Whilst payees are requested to cash their cheques promptly, Family Allowance cheques are payable at any time through a chartered bank. The date of its issue does not invalidate it. If you have any difficulty however in cashing it you should write the Regional Director of Family Allowances in your Provincial Capital who may provide you with a letter of authority to enable you to cash the cheque.

5. Recently I took a foster child into our home in order that he might go to school this winter. Are we entitled to draw Family Allowances for him?

FOSTER MOTHER

Answer—Yes, you should immediately advise your Family Allowance Office of the name and birth date of the child and the date he came into your custody and at the same time forward a completed Family Allowances registration form, blank forms being obtainable at all Post Offices.

6. My wife recently died leaving me with our young children. The Family Allowance cheque arrived after her death and was payable to her. May I cash this cheque or what should I do about it?

FATHER

Answer—You should return the cheque to the Family Allowance office, and advise them of the date of your wife's death and the fact that you are looking after the children; the cheque will then be cancelled and a new cheque issued to you in your own name.

HUGE WELSH MANSION HOME FOR MUSHROOMS

LANDILO, Wales—Edwinstford, a stately 40-room home in a beautiful valley here, has been converted into a "mushroom mansion."

Outwardly the sprawling building retains its 17th-century charm. Inwardly, three former Polish army officers who were demobilized in Britain have turned it into a factory. Mushroom sprout in the dining room, billiard room, library, wine cellar and stables.

Rich antique furniture has been replaced by tier upon tier of mushroom beds. Bill mirrors surrounding the large ballroom reflect the image of dusty piles of boxes, for it has become the main office and the packing room.

Next year the "invasion" is to be carried a stage further. There will be mushroom beds in the main bedrooms on the first floor.

The Poles live in their mushroom "factory" and report that business is flourishing.

DOWN THE HATCH!

Almost anything a young child seizes goes directly to his mouth. For the reason parents should take care that all a child's toys are too large to swallow: marbles, beads, buttons and pins may cause a trying situation if junior slips them down his throat. Remember, your child will swallow foreign objects too. Don't give him the chance.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

by Don Graham

"I'd be happy if I could just solve my biggest problems," said a neighbour of mine the other day.

Here was a man who believed that his whole life was spoiled because he had troubles. Happiness was not for him.

How wrong he was! Life is full of difficulties, trials, disappointments and problems. Yet countless people have learned that they can find happiness in spite of these universal handicaps. Indeed, the wisest of them have also learned that to overcome hardships and create right out of wrong is in itself a source of great satisfaction.

Your work, for instance, may be far from your ideal. But don't let that fact depress you or mar all the other satisfactions that life can bring. There is no "ideal job". So make the best of whatever is set before you.

No, life is not easy. It seldom hands us happiness ready-made. But from its raw materials, we can build a lot of happiness by our own efforts.

Is there an "ideal method" of meeting people's needs for life insurance? Experience has proved that the efficient service of competing companies, together with the helpful personal attention of their agents, meets everyone's needs most satisfactorily.

Big Turnout Is Looked For

Legion To Hold Services On Memorial Day

Everyone in the district is invited to attend the Memorial Day Service to be held in the Legion Hall at Chauvin, on Friday, November 11th.

Legion committees have just about completed arrangements for the annual religious observance of this important day, on which people people all over Canada will join in expressing their deep appreciation and paying tribute to those who laid down their lives on the field of battle to preserve our freedom.

In years past the attendance at the memorial service has not always been too encouraging, and has not reflected the feelings of the people of the district. It is hoped that this year the turnout to the service will be more in measure with the debt of gratitude we owe to the fine lads who did so much in our behalf.

The service will commence at 10:45 a.m. and will be conducted jointly by Protestant and Catholic clergy. During the service the usual period of silence will be observed, and wreaths will be laid at the foot of the roll of honor. All ex-service personnel are particularly requested to be in attendance and if possible their presence will be appreciated shortly before the start of the service.

Risk-Mikkelsen Nuptials At Coast

The Northern coastal town of Bella Coola, in British Columbia, was the setting for a very pretty wedding Tuesday, October 18th when Irene Dorothy Risk only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Risk of Paradise Valley, Alberta, was united in the bonds of Holy Matrimony to Edward Mikkelsen youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Mikkelsen of Bella Coola, British Columbia.

The ceremony took place at the home of the young couple, and the Reverend Luther Shutez of the United Church officiated.

The bride was attired in a floor length dress of white satin with sweetheart neckline trimmed with pearls, and was given away (in the absence of her Dad, who found it impossible to be in two places at once) by Mr. Harold Giles, and was assisted by Miss Lily Mikkelsen, who wore a floor length dress of Coral Taffeta and carried a bouquet of house chrysanthemums.

The groom was attended by Mr. Henry Leveton of Bella Coola. Bridesmaids and guests attended the wedding, after which a reception was held at the home of the newly wedded couple at which over forty guests were present.

The young couple will make their home in Bella Coola where Irene operates the local beauty parlor, and is cashier for the Bellville Theatre, and carried a bouquet of house chrysanthemums.

WILL URGE SUSPENSION OF LEVY ON MOTORISTS

Recent report that the provincial government has a $100,000 surplus has caused the unstarred judgment fund for victims of motor accidents to be discussed by the Alberta Motor Association, according to officials.

For some time the A.M.A. has urged that motorists should be relieved of the annual $1 levy to finance this fund because of the steadily accumulating surplus.

Since the fund was established in 1947, total claims have amounted to $190,000 of which $40,000 was paid in accident claims, the balance being hospital and medical bills of those injured.

Officials of the A.M.A. have pointed out that in Manitoba for example, the $1 charge was suspended the second year after the scheme was established, owing to the large surplus and small number of claims.

In Alberta, it has been contended that collection of the annual charge should be suspended.

This matter is to be discussed fully when the annual meeting of the A.M.A. is held in Edmonton Nov. 19.

ALBERTA

IT WAS HOT, FAST AND ROUGH

Ted Morris' fast-striking Toronto Argonauts, heated up by warm weather that hit Ontario over Thanksgiving weekend, played spectacular football to score a 29-0 win over Hamilton Wildcats before a Thanksgiving Day crowd of 16,500. On Saturday, Scullers defeated a fourth straight win for Toronto team. Argonauts are now in second place in Big Four line-up, four points ahead of Montreal Alouettes. Above, Casey of Wildcats is seen passing high to help bring down Argos' Royal Copeland during action-packed scene from Monday's game.

PACKING BEE HIVES
FOR WINTER

W. G. McAlister, Provincial Apiarist, Alberta Department of Agriculture, advises that in packing, a cardboard carton may be used that allows for three or four inches of shavings all around the hive and ten or twelve inches on top. Tar paper or a wooden case will produce the same results as cardboard. Shavings have proved very satisfactory but the use of straw is considered almost as good.

To pack the hive, the hive cover should be removed and a piece of burlap or sack used over the frames. The cardboard box is then slipped over the hive and the shavings poured in. The shavings should be firm but not tight around the hive. Next, a top entrance is put in that slides under the burlap above the frames. This top entrance is a tunnel about four inches wide and half an inch high, and long enough to reach from the front of the cardboard carton to the centre of the hive. The regular hive cover is then placed on the carton, but propped up with a stick so that air can circulate over the shavings all the time.

By this time, beekeepers who intend to winter bees will have chosen their colonies with care, and the bees will be settling down and forming their winter nests. Towards the middle of October the hives will have to be packed.

GERMINATION TESTS PARTICULARLY IMPORTANT THIS YEAR

The general frosts of early September have beyond doubt injured the germination of this year's cereal crops says A. M. Wilson, Field Crops Commissioner, Alberta Department of Agriculture. Mr. Wilson points out that oats in particular will be affected. He urges farmers to take every precaution by having seed samples tested for germination. Germination of oats is more seriously affected by frost than are other cereals. Injury to barley by frost is usually between that of oats and wheat. Frost lowers the grade of wheat and reduces the germination but the effect on wheat is not as serious as that caused by the same amount of frost on oats and barley.

Farmers who desire germination test of seed for their own use only, may take in a sample to their elevator agent for testing. Any grain to be sold as seed, however, must be subjected to the official government test. This may be done by sending a two pound representative sample to the Plant Products Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Calgary, together with the required fee. The fee for a control sample certificate is $1.00. If a germination test only is desired, the charge is 75c.

Farmers who desire tests of their samples by the Plant Products Division are urged to get the samples in early. If left until later there may be considerable delay in testing due to the large number of requests submitted.

MILK PRODUCTION SHOWS GAIN

In reviewing the dairy situation in the first five months of 1949, Current Review of Agricultural Conditions in Canada, a publication of the Economics Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, reports that Canadian milk production has shown a gradual increase over the unusually low production of 1948. For the period January to May, the 1949 production was 234 million pounds greater than in 1948, an increase of 4 percent. Present indications are that the gap between 1948 and 1949 will widen as the season progresses and that 1949 milk production will equal the 272 million pounds of milk produced in 1947.

The percentage of the milk supply used for fluid purposes has continued to decline in spite of an increased population, although in terms of actual milk consumed there is little change from 1948. With fluid utilization showing little change and total production higher, more milk has been available for butter and cheese production. The price relationship in 1949 has favored cheese and as a result cheese production has increased 16-18 per cent above January to July over 1948 and creamery butter production is 1.8 per cent below the January to July period of last year.

Sound Vegetables Store Best

The vegetables left in the back garden by the time frost comes are well worth storing. Often the quantity is not large and the kinds not many. Perhaps some potatoes, carrots, beets; but with care, spoilage can be prevented until well into the winter.

Generally an elaborate storage room is not available and some reasonably cool place in the basement is used. However, the conditions, successful storage depends principally on having sound products at the start. Out, bruised, frosted and damaged material should be discarded or placed aside for immediate use.

The stored products should be examined frequently. If wilting is noticed, humidity should be increased by sprinkling the floor with water or moistening the sand in which root vegetables may be buried. Vegetables which are beginning to rot should be discarded as they will affect sound material near them. Rotting vegetables also develop heat and make it more difficult to control temperature.

Another point to remember is that vegetables should be transferred to the cooler basement immediately after they have been taken from the garden. This is how commercial produce is handled; it is cooled immediately, thus prolonging the storage life.

MOST FOR YOUR MONEY

Nutritionists suggest that home-makers interested in getting the most for their food dollars should take care to purchase the foods recommended by Canada's Food Rules. A second point in economical feeding practices is attractive preparation which cuts down on waste. Food bills are a major expense on the family budget. Careful handling of this item will help out your family cost of living.

"Mamma, isn't it queer, Solomon was a great king but he didn't have a bed for himself."

"Why, what makes you say that?"

"Well, it says in the Bible, 'Solomon slept with his fathers.'"

Edgerton Memorial Service To Be Held Friday

SERVICES NOVEMBER 11TH WILL FEATURE UNVEILING

Memorial Day Services at Edgerton this year will take on a special significance, for it is planned to unveil the new cenotaph on the corner of Main Street and Second Avenue at that time.

The cenotaph is not yet fully completed, the weather being too cool to allow for the final coating of plaster. It has however, been painted white, so that its appearance is similar to what it will be in its finished form.

Edgerton, Legion is to be congratulated on the erection of this fine monument, and prominently located as it is it should serve as a constant reminder of the boys who paid the great price. Among the local groups that will participate in the unveiling are the Legion, the Cadets, the Masons and the Women's Auxiliary to the Legion.

It is planned to have the unveiling ceremony just before the regular Memorial Day Service, which will be held in the Memorial Hall, Mrs. Ernest Chalenger will perform the unveiling and Mr. Edgerton will conduct the services.

Just at what time the unveiling ceremony will commence has not as yet been decided due to the fact that the form of ceremony has not been recited and its length not determined. This time will be announced as soon as this information is available.

Following the unveiling and placing of wreaths, the group will move to the hall in time for the period of silence at eleven o'clock.

The public of the Edgerton district are reminded that the subscription list which is to provide funds to cover the cost of the erection of the memorial is still open at the Post Office and anyone so desiring is invited to make their contribution.

ROSEDALE

Rosedale Ladies Aid met at Mrs. Doug Burnett's on Thursday with good attendance. Plans were made for pecking the overseas parcel on Thursday next and a report of the bazaar was read. It was agreed to send a letter to the Bible Society. Will anyone wishing to donate to this cause please give same to Mrs. Glen McAfee. The meeting was conducted by vice-president Mrs. E. Avision and a delicious lunch served by hostesses Mrs. Glen McAfee and Mrs. Erickson.

The latest victims of the mumps are three members of Norman McAfee's household and Mrs. Lloyd O'xy. We wish all a speedy recovery.

Mr. Burrell Gibson made a business trip to St. Paul on Monday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Doug Burnett entertained a number of neighbors on Tuesday in honor of Mr. Bertrand's birthday. Another house guest was Mrs. Frank Tipler whose birthday was the same day.

Mrs. S. Chandler has just returned from a trip to England and is spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. W. Erickson.

Mr. and Mrs. Burrell Gibson and family spent the week-end at Hughenden and Consort.

Mr. D. Bertrand left on Monday after spending two weeks with Doug Burnett.

An enjoyable evening was spent at Saddle Hill School Friday night playing games. A "white elephant" auction sale was held and a lunch served. The occasion was to raise funds for the Christmas tree fund, and this was very successful.

Mr. Lorne Cornfield and Mr. Walter Schwank were business visitors to Edmonton last week.

Mrs. C. Moore of Jasper spent a few days with Mrs. Smale and called on several old friends in the district.

of events but not too disappointed. From early this morning Pearson has been reminded that the series starts today. A woman phoned his hotel room and asked if he could tell her where she could find Clarence Rowland. No, said Pearson, to whom do you want to speak?
The woman replied:
"Aren't you the president of the Baseball Writers' Association?"

UNITED NATIONS CANNOT COMPETE WITH BASEBALL

The work of the United Nations is of vast importance. In it lies the power of life or death of millions. But when it comes to a world series opening game, well, it'll be the following clipping, sent by Miss Ruth Phillips to her folks at Edgerton explain what happens. By the way, Ruth is working in a secretarial capacity with the Canadian delegation to the United Nations.

"Lake Success, N.Y., Oct. 5—The Important Political Committee of the United Nations Assembly adjourned unexpectedly today for lack of speakers. Many delegates headed for the World Series.

Chairman L. B. Pearson of Canada said sternly as he snatched down the gavel:
"Gentlemen, you have chosen a very bad day to decide not to work."
Then Canada's External Affairs minister, a baseball fan from a long way back, scurried toward the ball park. Also headed that way were Sir Carl Berenson of New Zealand and Hector McNeill, Britain's Minister of State.
"For the Dodgers," Pearson told the Canadian Press, but not before he emphasized that he had tried his best to keep the committee at work on the Italian question this afternoon.
Since there were no speakers willing to take the floor there was nothing to do but adjourn until tomorrow morning. Pearson was surprised at the turn
